ICRA has assigned a long term rating of [ICRA]A+ (pronounced ICRA A plus) and a short term rating of [ICRA]A1 (pronounced ICRA A one) for the Rs. 65.0 crore enhanced bank limits of APL Apollo Tubes Limited (AATL)[†]. ICRA has outstanding ratings of the [ICRA]A+ (stable)/[ICRA]A1 ratings for the existing Rs. 669.50 crore bank lines of the company. ICRA also has outstanding ratings of [ICRA]A+ (stable) for Rs. 125 crore Non Convertible Debenture programme and [ICRA]A1+ (SO) for the Rs. 200 crore Commercial Paper programme of the company.

Rating Rationale

AATL and its three wholly-owned subsidiaries namely Shri Lakshmi Metal Udyog Limited, Lloyds Line Pipes Limited and Apollo Metalex Private Limited are in similar line of business and have significant operational and financial linkages, thus, ICRA has taken a consolidated view for credit risk assessment of the group, referred to as 'APL Group' or 'the Group'.

The rating action takes into consideration the Group's leadership position in the ERW (electric resistance welded) pipes segment with healthy growth in its revenues and profitability, increase in its scale of operations supported by healthy capacity utilization levels, and improvement in working capital cycle of the group. In FY2016 and H1FY2017, the Group's manufacturing volumes grew by 28% and 9% respectively, offsetting the pressures on realizations on account of depressed steel prices, thereby allowing the Group to register 10% and 2% growth in manufacturing revenues. Further, the Group is actively looking to improve the product mix in favour of higher-margin hollow sections, pre-galvanised (GP) and galvanized iron (GI) pipes, which reflected in EBITDA expansion from 6% in FY2015 to 8.1% in FY2016 and further to 8.5% in H1FY2017. Driven by the growth in utilization, the Group has been consistently expanding its manufacturing capacities which stand at 13,00,000 tpa currently. Given the expansion of manufacturing capacity, addition of new products, growing applications of pipes, and efforts of the Group to improve its brand and distribution network, APL Group is expected to achieve steady growth in volumes, with improvement in EBITDA/tonne. The ratings also take into consideration the significant improvement in Group's working capital intensity with Net Working Capital (NWC)/Operating Income (OI) improving to 14% in FY2016 from 21% in FY2014. The improvement has been brought about on account of tighter credit terms for dealers which has helped reduce the debtor days, and despite the increased inventory levels as at the end of FY2016 to take advantage of price arbitrage between imported and domestic steel prices before the imposition of Minimum Import Price on HR coils. Since March 2016, the inventory levels have reduced consistently. This has resulted in healthy liquidity of the Group marked by working capital limit utilization at 50-60% of drawing power. Going forward, the working capital intensity is likely to reduce further on account of transition to dealer financing arrangement and rationalization of warehouses upon implementation of goods and Services tax (GST).

The ratings are however constrained by highly competitive nature of the pipes and tubes industry with presence of both organized and unorganized players resulting in significant pricing pressure. Also, the margins are susceptible to movement in steel prices which have seen significant volatility in the last two years and have resulted in inventory losses for the Group in FY2015 and FY2016. This, along with the inherent capital intensity has kept the return indicators (EBIDTA margin of 6.7% in FY2016 compared to 5.8% in FY2015.) moderate.

Further, constant capital expenditure has kept credit metrics at moderate levels with Debt/OPBIDTA in the range of 2.7x-3.0x, interest coverage at 4x and Net Cash Accruals (NCA) / Total Debt at 16.4% and gearing at 1.1x in FY2016. Further the Group has plans to double its installed capacity to 25,00,000 tpa by FY2020, however ICRA notes that the strong cash accruals will help finance a significant part of this expansion thereby helping maintain the group's credit profile over the medium term.
