About the company

SCTL was established in July 2006 as Rosenberger Shilpi Cable Technologies Limited, a 50:50 joint venture (JV) between Shilpi Communications Private Limited and Rosenberger Hochfrequenztechnik GmbH & Co. KG, Germany. The JV was formed to manufacture and sell radio frequency (RF) feeder cables in the domestic market. The JV set up a manufacturing facility at Chopanki, Rajasthan. The facility commenced commercial production in early 2008, and during the same year the stake of the German partner was bought by the Indian promoters. Though initially SCTL was only into RF feeder cables manufacturing, it has, over the years, added products such as wiring harnesses and battery cables for automobiles, wiring harness sets and power cords for white goods, and copper conductors (magnet copper wires and bunched copper wires) to expand and diversify its offerings. SCTL thus caters to automotive, telecom, and consumer durables segments, among others. In addition, it sells house wires, circuit breakers (MCCB and RCCB), and switches through distributors under the 'SAFE' brand name. SCTL, headquartered in Delhi, has five manufacturing units in Bhiwadi. Chopanki, Bahadurgarh (owned by an associate – AGH Wires), Hosur, and Pune (Bhiwadi and Chopanki plants are owned by the company, while the remaining have been taken on lease), and has 13 sales offices across India. SCTL also has subsidiaries and joint ventures in Singapore and UAE, which trade in copper cables and other products. The company is listed on Bombay Stock Exchange (BSE) and National Stock Exchange (NSE) since 2011.
